A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The United Nations Security Council, which was due to meet again today, delayed its session until Monday or Tuesday, to give the small powers more time in their efforts to find a formula for settlement of the Berlin issue.

The General Assembly elected Norway, Cuba and Egypt to the Security Council. The first two were named easily, but the selection of Egypt required four ballots.

With the support of the United States and the Soviet bloc, Egypt won from Turkey. A representative of the Israeli Government denounced Egypt's election, charging that the Cairo Government was an aggressor in Palestine and should not be allowed to sit on a peace-keeping body.

Secretary Marshall told a group of Western European labor leaders that "if ever there was in time of peace a threat to peace" the Berlin blockade was it.

Despite renewed activity by Soviet planes in the air corridor connecting Berlin with the West, the Western supply route to the former German capital functioned as usual. The British commander in Berlin announced an increase of 200 calories in food rations allowed the residents of the three Berlin sectors occupied by the Western powers.

General Sir William Slim, former commander of Allied land forces in Southeast Asia, was named Chief of

FUTURE OF BIPARTISANISM

Raising issues which go far beyond anything previously discussed in this campaign, Senator Vandenberg this week used his address supporting Governors Dewey and Warren as an occasion to review the subject of bipartisanship.

Basically, he presented President Truman and the Vice-Presidential nominee, Senator Barkley, with a challenge. Will they, if defeated, lead the Democratic Party in a bipartisan support of the policies of the next President, Thomas E. Dewey?

Senator Vandenberg didn't put it that way, but the challenge is clear. It is hard to see how either of the Democratic nominees can escape making a commitment. Will they, or won't they? Probably no current question is more tangled and important than this same subject of bipartisanship. Most helpful to public understanding would be a clean-cut declaration from President Truman, Vice-Presidential Nominee Barkley, and Secretary of State Marshall as to what each of them understands by the term, and what they would be willing to pledge in the way of bipartisanship in the future.

Senator Vandenberg gave his side of the case. As the leading Republican exponent of bipartisanship, he traced its origin and development.

According to him, the idea was suggested first by Governor Dewey in the course of his 1944 campaign. At that time, of course, and up to the 1946 Congressional elections, the Democratic party was in undisputed control of both Houses of Congress. Neither of the two Democratic Presidents of that period took bipartisanship at all seriously.

In fact, bipartisanship came into the picture during that time only in three circumstances: first, when the situation called for the naming of minority (Republican) members to various bodies controlled by Democrats; second, when the Democrats themselves split on questions in Congress, leaving the Republicans in the balance of power; and third, in cases where two-thirds majority was necessary in the Senate (as for appointments by the President, ratification of treaties, etc.) and the Democrats alone did not have sufficient votes.

Return of House and Senate majorities to the Republicans by the 1946 election, coupled with the promise of President Truman to "cooperate" with the Republicans, produced the situation in which bipartisanship became possible in the form pictured by Senator Vandenberg.

Accuses Russia of Use of UN as Propaganda Forum

Paris — Russia was accused before the United Nations today of persistent use of the world body as a forum for Soviet propaganda. Britain's Sir Hartley Shawcross attacked Russia's disarmament proposal in the UN Political Committee and called the language of the Soviet resolution "humbug worthy of Pravda and other puppet papers." In a sharply worded speech, the British barrister criticized the aggressiveness of Soviet spokesmen who claim peaceful intentions while outdoing one another in "generating an atmosphere of tension, provocation and hostility."

Warns U. S. Not to Destroy Atomic Bombs

Llandudno, Wales — Winston Churchill warned the United States today not to destroy its atomic bomb because a lasting settlement with Russia is impossible. The wartime prime minister appealed to America to keep its atomic stockpile unless she wants to "murder human freedom and commit suicide herself." Churchill, addressing the final session of the British Conservative Party's annual conference called for a blockade against the Soviet Union to bring matters to a head "before Russia gets the atomic bomb."

Tuition Controversy Settled

Middletown — The tuition controversy that has kept 17 Middletown children out of school since Sept. 22 was settled today for at least a month. Burgess Harold V. McNair provided $95.95 for a month's fee. Meanwhile, involved parents, residents of a Federal housing development, sought legal aid in the fight to give their youngsters free schooling. Realtors Hear Address By Elmer Carll, Phila.

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 9 — Elmer S. Carll, in addressing members of Bucks County Real Estate Board, here, on Thursday evening, asserted that Pennsylvania has another "first" to its credit — it being the first state "to envision and authorize the insuring of titles."

Mr. Carll, who is vice-president and title officer of Frankford Trust Company, also said: "We insure the past, other insurance agencies are interested in insurance on the future."

He also spoke of legislation which affects title insurance, development of the rate regulatory bill and the premium dollar. "I have always had a sort of affection for Bucks county, not because of the volume of business we do in the county, but because I spent some time as a boy on a farm," said Mr. Carll.

Of a highly technical and detailed nature, Mr. Carll's talk gave an interesting insight into the title insurance business.

One new member, Harold Heacock, of Perkasie, was welcomed. Announcement was made that A. Paul Townsend, of Langhorne, and Charles J. Hupp, of this borough, are in charge of reservations for the National Realtors' Convention in New York City, November 14 to 20.

Mr. Hupp reported that at the recent Pennsylvania Real Estate Association convention at Bedford, high tribute was paid to the memory of the Hon. Thomas B. Stockham, late of Morrisville. William A. Rossiter, Jr., president of Bucks Realtors' association, had given a eulogy for the late member at the state convention.

PREVENTING FIRES
This is National Fire Prevention Week. It should be observed with more diligence than is usually accorded special days and weeks. Its object is to protect life and property against needless waste.

The date is fixed by the season. The weather calls for kindling fires in stoves, furnaces and fireplaces that may not have been used since last spring. Are these heating outfits in condition? Take a look at them. Have experienced persons look at them, those who know what to look for.

Frequently such examinations reveal that pipes have been rusted through and may permit sparks and even flames to come in contact with inflammable material.

Rural districts are heavy fire sufferers every year. It is reported that approximately 35,000 farm buildings go up in smoke annually. That figures out at about one building lost every 15 minutes. That is bad enough, but in these fires more than 3,500 persons lose their lives.

Some rural districts are organizing and getting fire protection by the use of equipment from municipal fire departments. Such hookups should be extended wherever feasible.

FIGHT FOR SANITY
Prophets of disaster, if they know what they are talking about, are selfless public benefactors. If their warnings are heeded, they will fall flat. That is why they speak.

So when Col. H. Edmund Bullis, executive director of the Delaware State Society for Mental Hygiene, warns that four out of 10 children now in Delaware schools will enter a mental hospital some day, he was making a prediction that he personally will try to defeat.

His prediction fits the facts not only in Delaware but in the United States today. More hospital beds are occupied by the mentally ill than by persons with physical ailments. More than one-third of Selective Service rejections were on mental grounds. And of those accepted, almost two out of every five given medical discharges were released because of psychoneuroses.

Sponge fishing off Florida may cease soon because of dwindling of supply. If human sponges could be used, there would be no scarcity.

Future of Bipartisanship

Much of his talk was essentially defensive, for the reason that there have been weak spots in bipartisanship, and unanswered questions about its advisability and its final result.

There are three blindspots in bipartisanship. These are, first, that a President is assigned by the Constitution to be the leader in foreign policy, and does not have to use bipartisanship if he does not wish—and neither Roosevelt nor Truman cooperated consistently in this field; second, as bipartisanship works out, it is neither of the two parties, but a more or less accidental cluster of Senators (members of the Foreign Relations Committee) who do the actual deciding and committing; third, if both parties become committed to a line of action in foreign affairs, the public, supposed sovereigns over the government, are deprived of any opportunity to learn both sides of these questions, as well as losing their right to use balloting as a referendum on these policies.

Neither Roosevelt nor Truman ever made any real effort to deal with foreign affairs on a bipartisan basis. It was, in fact, only when they got in trouble with their own programs that they "cooperated" to the extent of letting the Republicans pull the fat out of the fire.

Republicans had nothing to say about the status of the phony Atlantic Charter, nor its purported contents; they had virtually nothing to say about the U. N. charter worked out at Dumbarton Oaks; they had nothing to say about the concessions granted to Stalin by President Roosevelt at Teheran and Yalta, or by President Truman at Potsdam.

The Republicans were not consulted in advance, and therefore had only trivial power to help mold, such programs as Greek aid, the Marshall Plan, and many other such Truman projects—including three which Senator Vandenberg specifically mentioned as not being bipartisan: China, Palestine and Japan. Senator Vandenberg also called attention to another most important field of foreign activity which is outside bipartisanship: the work being done in many parts of the world by the U. S. Army, of which the supervision of occupied Germany is the largest, but far from the only, undertaking.

Even under Mr. Vandenberg's own statement of the matter, bipartisanship has covered only a small part of foreign policy. Whether it will cover as much, or more, or less, when it becomes a matter of the Democratic minorities cooperating with President Dewey, is a question still to be answered.

Certainly President Truman ought to go into this whole subject before the American people are called upon to cast their votes. He has benefited from bipartisanship, yet he has condemned the Republican Congress as "the second-worst in history." He specifically promised to cooperate with these Republicans, yet he failed to consult them, or even advise them, before making some of the most important decisions of the generation. Moreover, the Democratic platform does not even hint of the existence of bipartisanship, let alone commit that party to such a policy if the Democratic President is replaced by Governor Dewey.

This whole subject merits far more attention in the campaign than it has thus far received.

We thank thee for the light he shed upon the pathway of mankind, for the example of perfectness which his life manifested. Lead us into closer fellowship with Him. Keep us ever faithful unto Him. Help us to serve Him with all our heart and soul and mind and strength. BRISTOL HIGH IS VICTORIOUS OVER CONSHOHOCKEN XI

CONSHOHOCKEN, Oct. 9—Bristol High's furious offensive power was at its highest pitch last night as the Warriors came from behind to upset the Conshohocken eleven on a mud-soaked field. After 48 minutes of playing the final score ended: Bristol, 31; Conshohocken, 18.

Bristol showed more power last night than it did in all previous games for the past few years. The five touchdowns made by the Warriors represented more than they totaled last season and they made them the hard way. Good blocking was prevalent. The linemen made large holes in the line while the line-smashing tactics of "Bill" Moll will never be forgotten by Conshohocken. And when Bill wasn't hitting the line little Sammy Petrizzi was throwing jet propelled passes to Jimmy Sottile and Jimmy was in a catching mood. On end runs and reverses, "Al" Daniel and "Whitey" Welker made good yardage.

Defensively, Conshohocken could do little with the Bristol line. The Conshohocken backs were thrown for losses on many occasions and the Warriors hit so hard that Conshohocken made numerous fumbles. The only weak spot in the Bristol defense was its inability to check forward passes. Conshohocken scored its three touchdowns via the air.

Although the slippery turf made running plays hard, it did not stop the Bristol backs who tried more deceptive plays than they have all season and these resulted in many first downs. In addition to the five six-pointers Bristol missed at least two others and had the ball on Conshohocken's 15 yard line when the final whistle sounded.

A recovered fumble in the first quarter enabled Bristol to score and take a 6-0 lead. The touchdown was made on a short pass, Petrizzi to Sottile. However, before the quarter was over, Conshohocken tied the score when Bob Weidner whipped a pass to Kenny DeCarlo from the nine-yard line.

Three minutes before the half was over, Conshohocken scored again and took a 12-6 lead. Weidner tossed three passes in succession for completion. The aerials gained a total of 60 yards with Bob Graham on the receiving end of the touchdown pass.

With two minutes to go, Bristol received the kickoff and Petrizzi fired three passes to Sottile which carried the ball from the 40 to the 8-yard line. Then Daniel took the pigskin on an end run and dove over the final chalked stripe but the officials ruled that Daniel's knee had touched the ground six inches from the goal line. As it was the final play of the half, Bristol lost the opportunity to carry the ball over.

"Shorty" Gleason recovered a

Conshohocken fumble in the third period on the latter's 21 yard line. Daniel went around end for 11 yards and then crossed the home team up by handing the ball on "Whitey" Walker on a reverse. Welker scored without trouble and the score was deadlocked at 12-12.

Shortly after, Bristol took the lead for the first time. Jim Sottile dove on a bouncing Conshohocken fumble on the Conshohocken 30. Petrizzi hit center for three yards. Standing on the 35-yard line, Petrizzi heaved a long pass to Sottile who was over the goal line when he caught the pass. Monte faked a kick and passed to Sottile for the extra point to make the count, 19-12.

Bristol still wasn't through with its third period scoring. It drove Conshohocken back to its goal line where it was forced to kick. Bristol lost the ball on a fumble and Conshohocken booted to the Bristol 29. On the first play, Petrizzi rifled a pass to Sottile who caught it on the 50 and ran to the 14 where he was downed from behind. The play was good for 66 yards. Daniel found an opening for two yards. After Petrizzi was stopped at center, Moll pounded the line twice to score. As Moll missed the extra point, the score stood 25-12.

Weidner's passing paved the way for the final Conshohocken touchdown. His first pass to DeCarlo put the ball on the 25. A penalty and line play put the ball on the 11. Another forward, Weidner to Ray Graham scored the touchdown and shaved Bristol's lead to 25-18.

To make victory certain, the boys of Harry McClister made its fifth touchdown early in the final session. The march started in Bristol's territory with Moll chalking up a first down on two plays. Daniel had beautiful interference as he raced down the side-lines to the Conshohocken 30-yard line. Moll, on a line plunge, carried the pigskin to the 19-yard line. Petrizzi got off and was downed on the 11-yard line but a Bristol penalty cost five yards. Petrizzi and Moll brought the ball to the three-yard line and from here, Petrizzi went around right end for the touchdown.

It has been announced that the Bristol-Abington game, scheduled for next Friday night, has been changed to Saturday afternoon at Abington.

LANGHORNE ACES WILL OPPOSE THE GOODWILL TEAM

The undefeated and unscathed upon Langhorne Aces will be the foes of the Goodwill Hose team tonight on the high school field. Opening kickoff will be at 8:30 o'clock.

The Aces, defending champions of the Lower Bucks County League, have beaten Willow Grove Vets, Lambertville A. A., and Kulpsville A. A. in succession. None of the three clubs were able to score any points on the Langhorne team.

Langhorne is coached by "Johnny" Mesics, of Temple University fame. Mesics is a proponent of the "T" and has one of the best ball handlers in this section to handle the ball "Lou" Spadacino. However Spadacino was injured in the Kulpsville game and may not be able to start against Goodwill.

The Goodwill coaches held practice twice this week and drilled chiefly on a defense against the T-formation. The fire-eaters are determined to break up the best offensive weapon of Langhorne.

Goodwill's starting lineup will most likely be: Ends, Ellis and Gross; tackles, A. Janucci and M. Janucci; guards, Monachello and Wade; center, Distler; backs, Elmer, Singer Brady and Holden.

MIDGET SPEEDS ARE EXPECTED TO GO HIGHER

Midget speeds are expected to reach new and dizzy heights with the qualifying today over the tough Langhorne Speedway, for the 100-Mile AAA National Championship climax tomorrow.

Champions, from every section and sector of the racing car world will take the green flag in quest of record times and preferred position in the main event.

Cash prizes for low times, will serve as an added incentive.

The old record of 34.41, is expected to go by the boards early.

The Owls have the best record of schools in this section thus far, winning two games and tying another. The deadlock game was against Mt. Holly while the wins were registered against St. Francis and Newtown.

Last season, PSD held Bensalem to a score-less stale-mate and have always been a nemesis to Bensalem teams on the gridiron.

Gives Reasons For Water Rate Boost

so that there will be better water at all times. At present there are certain periods of the year when the low water in the river makes it impossible to operate the plant efficiently with the present intake line.

"To raise sufficient funds for these improvements Council has created a Municipal Authority. This group of five prominent local citizens will have the legal authority to raise the necessary funds through the sale of bonds and make these improvements, with the Borough Council continuing to operate the plant.

"Through the advice of our consulting engineering firm of Philadelphia, the present water rate increase is necessary to cover the amortization of the bonds, carrying charges, and the operation cost of the plant. The water rent rates in the Borough of Morrisville have not been raised, other than a slight decrease in the bill discount, since the plant was built some 50 years ago. This has made water rent in Morrisville among the lowest in the State.

"All rate increases for consumers beyond the borough limits must be approved by the Public Utility Commission, after public rate hearings have been held. Although the local rate increases were filed with the Utility Commission more than three months ago, such public hearings have not as yet been held. However it is anticipated that such hearings will be held and a decision rendered by April 1, 1949.

"In conclusion there is the increased cost of operation and maintenance and accordingly it is the opinion of Borough Council as a whole that the present rate is justified."
